

THE DOG WHO FELT ASHAMED – MYTH OR REALITY?

Contents:

Foreword
Animals' emotions and thoughts
Where do dogs come from?
Humans are special
Can the dog understand our intentions?
Do dogs understand what we say?
Can dogs talk?
Our faces give us away
Do you see what I see?
Are we all equals from a dog's point of view?
Empathy
Can a dog feel ashamed?
Jealousy, envy, injustice
Dogs that copy
Left-handed or right-handed?
Dogs, time and lonely days
Dogs that can count
Personal dogs
Dogs in our everyday life
Dogs aren't really so clever
What can we learn from dogs?
Research

Hunden som skäms

Per Jensen

192 pp

Dogs have a unique ability to understand and communicate with us humans, a capacity that has developed over thousands of years of close interaction. In fact, they are better at understanding us than we ourselves are. During recent years, researchers have made it possible to gain a glimpse through the door to the inner life of dogs. We have learnt that their thoughts and feelings primarily circle around one thing: their relation to man.

In this book you can read about the new findings concerning dogs' intelligence and emotional life. Can they really feel ashamed if they have done something that is forbidden? Do they have a sense of what is right and just? And can they feel jealous? What is their understanding of time? How much of our language can they understand? The new insights into the innermost thoughts of dogs make it impossible to ever see a dog in the same way again.

About the author:

Per Jensen is a professor in Ethology at the University of Linköping. He initiated and teaches the university's popular courses on the behavioural biology of dogs.

BENNET AGENCY

SÖDER MÅLARSTRAND 21
118 20 STOCKHOLM
SWEDEN

MOBILE: +46 704 67 42 70
WWW.BENNETAGENCY.COM

