"Look, Mum, I'm a super hero!"

Children love role-playing and outfits. But buying ready-made costumes is expensive and making them yourself is challenging.

The little hero's cape book is a solution to every modern parent's inner conflict: how to make something for your child, when you do not have time or sewing skills?

The book includes patterns and instructions for ten different capes. Every cape is based on the same basic pattern, needing only material, scissors and glue, as well as one hour at most, to make it. Different materials and decoration motives transform the same cape pattern for a new character. For every cape version there are paper accessories belonging to the character, for example, an eye-patch for the pirate and a magic wand for the fairy, which you can cut out of the book and use straight away. The book has also assignments suitable for every character, which the child can solve while waiting for the cape to be ready.

The book is aimed for pre-school boys and girls, as well as their parents. All the cape designs and outfits, as well as the playing and game suggestions, were planned together with 3–4-year old children or inspired by their playing.

About the authors:

Satu Kontinen is a graphic designer and writes children's books. Her husband Samu takes photographs. This book was inspired by their son playing and is a joint project of the whole family.
