Lone Wolf – Läderarbete

Michael Gärtner

180x230, 128p

This is a guide to making bracelets, key holders and other simple leather goods, all from the comfort of your kitchen table.

Around 15 projects are presented here, with a number of variations on braids and knots. We learn about the different parts of leather and how best to use them, along with tips on tools and their applications and sewing by hand.

Most of all, though, the pages of this book inspire us to share in the creative joy of working with a multifaceted natural material and to preserve an ancient traditional craft. And perhaps you'll find that making your own durable leather items is far more satisfying than buying the cheap, throwaway goods we see so much of today.

About the author

Michael Gärtner is a leather craftsman who sells his handmade goods under the label Lone Wolf Sweden. As the son of a top Swedish shoemaker, Michael has extensive knowledge of leatherwork that has served him well since childhood.
