Easy-to make, attractive and functional children's clothes

Kids grow and constantly need new clothes. And to be honest, how many really nice clothes are out there in the shops? This book is for anyone who's keen to sew their own clothes and who appreciates the little details that go into making something different and ingenious. Because if you're keen you can learn along the way! And if you're already a dab hand with the sewing machine, you'll find a whole new range of patterns and ideas to add to your repertoire.

Perhaps it's a pair of super speedy leggings, a ballet skirt with a shower of confetti or a cheeky little bomber jacket. The idea is not to follow our designs 100% but to have a go at making the kids' clothes you've always wanted. The clever patterns can be pieced together in almost infinite combinations, so you'll soon find out how much fun it is to be your own tailor. Before you know it, you'll have put together not one but two wardrobes and maybe come up with an idea for a garment of your own in the process!

About the authors

Graphic designer Kerstin Hanson knows more about making books than sewing clothes but found her way to sewing heaven via paper embroidery, neon printing and a collection of fabrics she bought online.

Kina Larsson is an art director by day but has studied sewing and pattern making and made everything from bridal gowns to ski-wear.
