Treasures from the archives: regional specialties and socks linked to Finnish historic figures

Tetri is known for her thorough research on traditional Finnish knits. This time she has prepared a surprise feast of traditional patterns and the fascinating stories behind them. First section of the book portrays socks worn by prominent Finnish historical figures such as composer Jean Sibelius, national poet J. L. Runeberg and Finland's longest-serving president Urho Kekkonen. To complete the picture, another section is dedicated to socks worn by the common people of the day: practical knee socks, romantic lace socks and patterns from different regions of Finland.

About the author

Anna-Karoliina Tetri is one of the most prolific Finnish authors of craft books. Her expertise ranges from dyeing techniques to felting and knitting. She has published many collections of traditional knitting patterns adapted for modern materials and measurements.
